Our contemporary, we petret to say, so far forgot himself, as to add of his own motion to an advertisement sent to him for insertion setting forth that a clerk was wanted, "No Portuguese need apply." The ill-feeling has been fanned to a small fisme by those whose views it suited to oust the Portuguese from the status they have earned and have so long occupied. The ill-advised proceedings of the Governor of Macao with respect to the thief Gutierrez, undoubtedly produced a highly prejudicial effect in the minds of the mercantile community and tended greatly to shake confidence in Portuguese employes We have beard it stated seriously; that there are not six Portuguese in the colony who live within their incomes. We maintain that this dictum would have approached far nearer correctness if it had been reversed and made to stand that all but six live within their income. There are assuredly many times eix who are

There is an idea which is pretty generally entertained, that the system which prevails of employing Portuguese in mercantile establishment in China, is both prejudicial and unfuir towards Englishmen who come out in questof employment. We do not hear the cry that Americans or Germans are prejudiced by the system, but only Englishmen; which in this part of the world means Great Britons generally and collectively. Canada has agreed to hav the North Pole, i same body else will find the nurchase-money That really grows be the only result of the Cana dian deputation to Great Britain, and is certainly THAT delightfully situated BUNGALOW. the only one as yet made public to the world. A more unestisfactory paper than Mr. Cardwell's CERCAL. despatch summing up the negotiations between the mother country, and Canada, was never laid before Parliament. It may be the fault of the circomstances, and not of the diplomatiets on either side, but it will be received both, by the colonist and the British public with a strong sense of disappointment. Nothing is settled except that Canada is to have the refusal of the vast territory claimed by the Hudson's Bay Commany, and that Great Britain is to guarantee to a knot of Loadon merchants that a colony over which she has no control shall pay them for an undefined, period an indemnity, the amount of which is not specific but which the taxpayer being the ultimate paymaster, is pretty sure to be sufficiently large. The objects of the deputation as understood in this country were, brat, to settle with Her Majesty's Government a plan for carrying out the great project of federating British North America; and: secondly, to lay down the buser of a durable alliance between the mother country and her greatest English speaking dependency—bases to be preferred bereafter quoted as precedents for the transformation of all the Anglo-Saxen colonies into a vast ring of British allies. There is nothing whateverin these papers to show that either object has been attained. The Envoys in the first place were not clothed with any substructial power of treaty-making. Everything has to be referred back again to the Colonial Legislatures, which are certainly unaccustomed and probably unfit to deal with international relations and which will in all buman probability relegate questions which tax to the ntmost the ingehoity and fact of statesmen to the final decision of Canadian farmers. Her Majesty s Government primaise indeed to further the confederation by the use of every proper means of influence." but no deputation was required to eligit that pledge. It was given before in Parling ment, in the Queen's Speech, in Mr. Cardwell'a desputed praising the delegates it has been endorsed by the whole nation, and it is demanded hy the acknowledged and pressing interests of of 2500 Tons each. both countries. The point is how to convince the maritime colonies which refuse to see the facts; that they must see them or take the the consequences, and 'proper influence' will prove we fear, but a feeble kind of collyrium. What proper influence" has the British Government left in New Bronswick other than that force of argument to which the arrival for the deputation can add nathing? This country cannot brite the New Brunswickers except by guaranteeing a rail- DREMISES in Queen's Research which there is no sign, or coarce them December 1 Offices or Dwelling House. except by a distinct assurance that her aid in time of war, is conditional on confederation, and that policy demands a more decided Administration. All the Ministry can do apparently is to wait, and stir up local officials, and then could have done buth without a negotiation which has attracted the attention of the whole world, and which will now be pronounced by the whole world a failure. The Ed. Schelibuss & Co. at dike godowns of Messars to the Principal J. Borgaszi, who sarnestly de great project incomparably the greatest English Gibb Livingston & Co. where it was sit manihe ago, dependent upon the votes of the few dozen persons who hold the balance between obscure parties in the smaller.

The bases of alliance are equally left unsettled Assorances are of course repeated from either side that the provinces are most loyal, and that England will defend her colonies, but both those propositions had been assumed before. The Canadians had showd pretty clearly that they preferred a separate future to a future lost in that of the Union, and the preference, if not loyalty, is a good working political substitute. They cannot be separate without our help, and as we are willing to help them they are of course just as willing and as wilful as other dependent allies. On the other hand, it was perfectly cartain, all policy apart, that the Government would defend the colonies. because as long as they are British, a shot fired at them would wake the Imperialist spirit which nover sleeps among an Angla-Sazon people, and against which no Government which ever existed in this island has been able to struggle. The mere suspicion of submitting to foreign dictation in the matter of the Conspiracy Bill pulverized a powerful Ministry, and nearly destroyed the prospect of Lord Palmerston's dictatorship: What in required is not a promise of alliance, but a notion of its terms, and on that point we receive no information. The Canadians, it is clear, ask a great deal more than they are at all likely to get They demand first that we should do our share of the masonry work needed for fortifications, then that we should guarantee the loan to be raised in order that they may do theirs, and then that Talbot & Co. we should keen a fleet upon Lake Ontario. In return they offer we really have no conception what. The only thing stated is that they will spend. 200,0001.a year on their militi-sa sum which certainly is not inconsistent with the strictest ideas of coloninleconomy. Considering that we are thirty millions, and spend a pound a head on armaments, the downs on the Prays. No. 46, between Messes. offer to twenty pence alhead is not at all events, lavish. It may be all the colonies can give, but in that case Great Britain had bettertake the whole expense. as well as the whole control, and postpone the gubia ect of alliance till, in the growing prosperit of Canada, the expenditure of two peoce halfpenny is not quite so severely felt. Even this proposition, however inadequate as it seems to us, is not so, residence, and can view the while harbour. couted. Her Majesty's Ministers tell the Canadians that as to the guarantee they will do nothing until the local legislatures have accepted the works, and as to Lake Ontario they can do nothing in time of peace, heing debarred by treaty, and in time of war must be left free to use their own best judgment, which is very sensible, but does U. Politicisus land hoped that some principle would be laid down as a basis for permanent arrungement, that Canada would, for example, have been informed that, wealth for wealth and population for population, she must do as much as Great Britain. That is her proper sharp, and not in expenditure of 200, 0001, a year, or any other fixed sum, but there is not a trace of any such plan having been so much discussed.
